

AVIATION

THE HEIGHT OF LUXURY FROM EMPIRE AVIATION GROUP

ISSUE TEN | MARCH 2012

MR.
CLOONEY

The coolest man in Tinseltown on his long rise to superstardom

ALI AND ME

One fan's remarkable tale of how he made friends with Muhammad Ali

ALAIN DUCASSE

The most decorated chef in France on why TV cooks are tasteless

PAST MASTER

Why Morgan's first ever four-wheeler is back on the road to greatness

TURKISH DELIGHT

Enjoy the sun, style and historical charm of jet-set Cesme Peninsula

THE ULTIMATE TEST.....

According to EAG, Air Ambulance is one of the most demanding forms of mission undertaken in private aviation. The aircraft selection – Hawker 800XP - reflected this and was based on several criteria, including the aircraft's ability to operate in a variety of challenging conditions with a critical patient onboard, whilst allowing the medical team sufficient space to monitor and treat the patient. The Hawker 800XP offers a very good package of cabin size, range and economy, as well as overall operational capability. Hot weather, high altitude landing capabilities are essential to access remote areas, whilst cabin temperature and pressure control ensures patient comfort.

Typical air ambulance services are rapid regional response for patients requiring urgent evacuation from worldwide destinations. The patient could be a member of the international community, such as an NGO, defence or security personnel, or construction worker, who is evacuated to a point of treatment. These are critical, life threatening situations which can be rendered threatening by the remoteness of the patient's location. In these challenging situations there is no room for compromise when it comes to medical or aviation proficiency and standards.

From the base in Dubai, teams are available 24/7 to respond through Intensive Care Air Ambulance in any remote or hostile areas of the Middle East, Central Asia or North Africa, with the response becoming airborne within 2-3 hours of notification. RMSI is at the forefront of medical retrieval, clinic and ambulance services and is the only full service western standard hostile area medical company in the world.

